High blood glucose, weight that won't move, cravings, PCOS, fatty liver - often one root.

That root is often insulin resistance - the body stops responding to insulin, so it makes more and more of it. And high insulin doesn't stop at blood glucose.

Picture a rush-hour train so full the platform staff are shoving people in - that's insulin forcing glucose into cells that are already packed.

- Blood glucose that keeps climbing even when you're doing everything right
- Weight that won't move, especially around the middle
- Fatty liver picked up on a scan you weren't expecting
- Cravings that feel like a willpower problem but aren't
- PCOS symptoms put down to "just the ovaries"
- And the weight and energy changes that often tangle up with thyroid and menopause

Medication brings the number down - that is what it is designed to do. It does not change why the number is high. The first consultation starts with the why: no generic chart, lifestyle and medication treated as one picture, before anything new is added.

The doctor who teaches you to not need her.

In 2013, Dr. Roshani discovered her own HbA1c was 6.3 – pre-diabetic. An endocrinologist developing the condition she had spent years prescribing medication for. That changed the direction of her practice.

She stopped adding medication as the first answer. She trained in motivational interviewing under Dr. William Miller – who co-founded the method. She built a practice around making patients independent – not dependent.

6,200+ patients across 12+ countries. The goal is clinical clarity, safer decisions, and more independence over time.
